Butet and Iwan are talking about the traditional games festival they have just visited.

Iwan : Well, it was a nice festival, wasn't it?

Butet : Yes, it really was. The games were very interesting.

Iwan : Did you meet Shanti, the EQS reporter?

Butet : Yes, I met her outside the studio. She was with two people from foreign countries. Their names are Rustu and Kirsten. I think they really enjoyed the festival.

Iwan : I also enjoyed the festival. But I think we can be very tired after playing all of those games. I think video games are more relaxing. We don't need to run a lot.

Butet : Perhaps you are right. But, don't you think games like pulu-pulu and hide and seek are more challenging? We can play and do some sports at the same time. They are more tiring than video games but better for our health.

Iwan : I see your point.

Butet : Besides, we also have some other games which don't need much movement like congklak or bekel. Tell me, which one is more exciting, playing traditional games in the yards with your friends or playing video games in your room?
